

INTEGRATED SOLUTIONS MANAGEMENT

SOLUTIONS FOR THE BUSINESS OF GOVERNMENT

Integrated solutions management is critical to providing consistent quality integration of the diverse IT services across the enterprise. A solid integrated solutions management methodology mitigates risks introduced due to the complexity of services provided and varying user bases of all service solutions provided. Working to drive the right mix of service enhancement projects needed to support strategic and organizational business needs.

- Identify cross-functional issues and constraints to effectively document and mitigate enterprise risk.
- Provide a solid governance structure for consistent risk management, issue resolution and change management
- Facilitate integrated end-to-end solutions testing, assuring minimal impact to infrastructure as new services are integrated into the service portfolio
- Support a common solutions framework for standardized analysis of cross-functional requirements, infrastructure management, security and data sharing

Appsential provides Integrated Solutions Management to the Department of Energy in support of their enterprise wide financial, procurement and integrated data warehouse systems. Our Integrated Management solution focuses on early definition of interdependencies and cross-program value by evaluating common needs across each service portfolio. The systems support an annual budget of $37B, approximately 15,000 federal employees, 100,000 contractor employees, and many other research laboratories, facilities, and operations offices.
